Loss

Loss is when something leaves our life

It is a change we do not like.

When we lose something we feel sad. This sadness is called grief.

Not being able to do something you used to do.

A place you used to go closing.

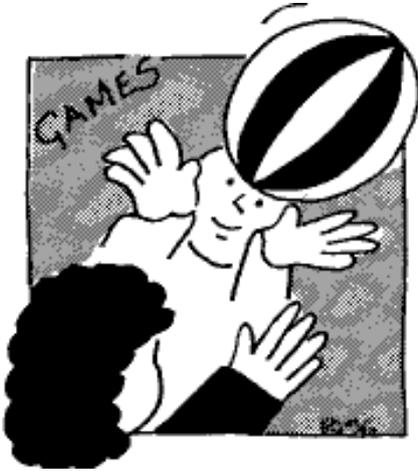

Having to move home.

Someone you care about dying.

When someone you care about dies this is called bereavement.

Sometimes after a bereavement more loss can happen.

No longer doing something you used to do together.

Not seeing someone you used to see together.

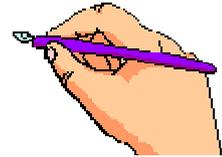

Not going to a place you used to go together

- Think about things that you do not have any more.
- Think about things that you do not do any more.

⇒ Write below the things you have you lost in your life.

If someone important to you has died you can put a picture of them below to show who this booklet is about for you and write their name below.

Grief

Grief can affect lots of things.

How you feel

How you behave

How you think

Feelings

People can have all kinds of strange feelings. They might

Feel sick
Feel breathless

Need to cry a lot
Feel sad
Feel lonely
Feel lost

Get pains
Get ill more often
Feel tired

Feel like they did a bad thing
Feel worried or frightened

Feel very angry

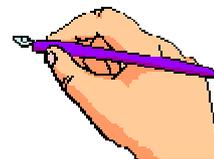

Have different feelings
Not know how they feel
Stop having feelings

However you feel is OK.

⇒ Write below the feelings you have

Write here

Behaviour

People can behave differently.

They might want to be alone more or
be afraid to be alone

They might not be able to sleep
or want to sleep more

They might not want to do anything or want to keep busy

They might not want to eat or want to eat more

They might want to talk about it a lot
or not talk about it at all

Everyone is different

⇒ Write below what things you do differently

Write here

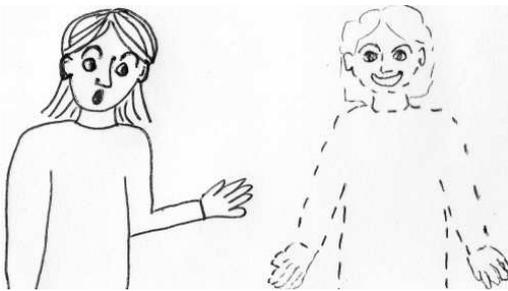

Thoughts

People can think differently. They might

Think they will not be able to cope.

Find it hard to think or make decisions.

Wish it was not true.

Miss the person so much they seem to be there.

Think no one understands.

Think nothing matters any more.

Worry that they should have said something.

Worry that they should have done something.

Think it's really unfair and ask 'why me?'

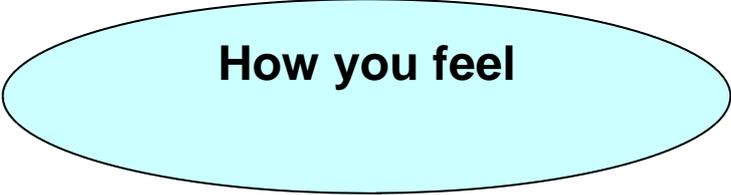

⇒ Write below the things that you think

Ways of Coping

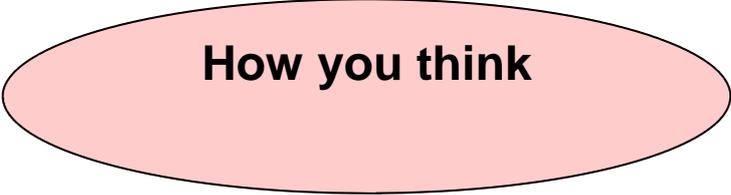

- There are things that you can do to help you.
- You will need to think about the things below.

How you feel

How you behave

How you think

- Lets look at them one at a time..

Feelings

- At first there are big feelings all of the time.
- You might want to push away the bad feelings.
- You probably will not feel sad every minute of every day.

- You might forget and enjoy something.
 - It is OK to have fun
 - Even when you are very sad

- You will remember again.
 - The feelings return.
 - Feelings can be sudden and strong.

- Over time feelings get smaller or happen less.

- Instead of trying to forget it can help to remember.
 - Let the sad feelings out.
 - Happy memories can grow.

⇒ Things you can do to help you remember

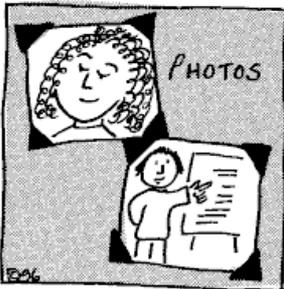

Visit the grave.

- Take flowers.
- Say what is on your mind.

Visit somewhere you used to go with them.

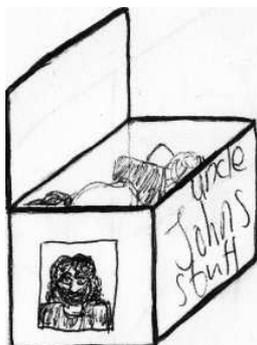

Make a book of photos.

- of the person
- of places you went together
- of things the person liked

Cut and stick pictures that remind you of them.

Paint or draw.

Make a memory box to put things in

- that belonged to the person
- that remind you of them
- that they liked

Record the person's favourite songs.

Plant a flower or garden in their name to remember them.

Share your memories with someone who knew the person.

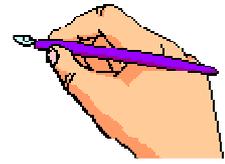

On special days like Christmas or birthdays you could do something nice to remember them.

- You choose what you want to do.
- It has to be right for you.

⇒ Write below what you would like to do to remember

Behaviour

- It is very hard when someone you love dies.
- Be kind to yourself.
- Do what makes you feel better.
- At first it may be too hard to do your normal things, that is OK.

But try to let yourself have some fun.

Plan things to look forward to.

Give yourself time

Let yourself relax.

Take some exercise

Things to be careful about

- At first it is OK to behave in whatever way makes you feel better.
- But some behaviour might become bad for you over time.
- Some things to look out for are

Losing a lot of weight.

Putting on a lot of weight.

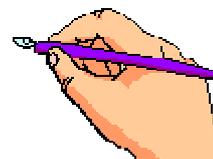

Spending all your time on your own .

Never smiling any more.

If you feel worried about yourself ask for some help. Turn to page 25.

⇒ Write below what things you could do to look after yourself

Thoughts

If decisions are hard to make tell people you do not feel like making them.

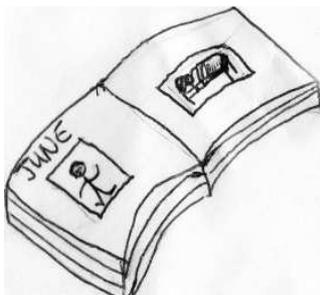

Talk to someone about your thoughts.

- It could help you stop worrying.
- They could explain something that you do not understand.

Say the things you wish you had said to them.

- Pretend the person is there.
- Write a letter to the person.

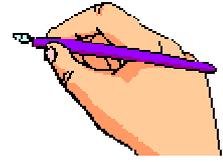

If you are a bit confused, it can help to keep a thought diary or picture book.

- Over time it may make more sense.
- Showing it to people might help them understand how you are feeling.

⇒ Write below what you think might help you cope with confusing thoughts

Things that work

Look through the book at the things you have tried to help yourself deal with your bereavement.

⇒ Write in the box below what things worked and what did not

Activities	Tick if worked	Tick if did not work	Think of something else you could try

Getting help

- You may have feelings that are really big, bad or scary.
- You may not think you have anyone to talk to who understands.
- If you have felt bad for a long time and you want help to feel better it is OK to ask.

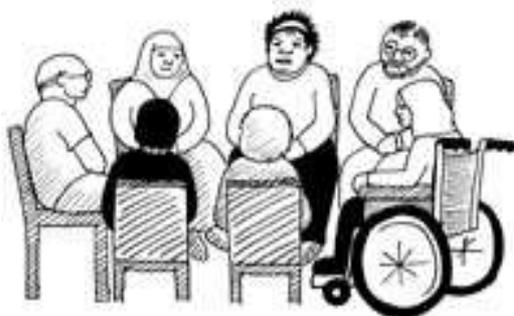

There are people who can listen to how you feel.

They can show you ways to help things become easier over time.

They can help your carers to understand.

It can help to meet people who had had the same experience.
